

SBP participates in Seminar titled "Financial Derivative Instruments and Market Risk"

So as to form officers that can verify, value and analyze comprehensively the underlying assets that compose the financial instruments that form an important part of the balance sheets of the Banks established in Panama, the Superintendency of Banks organized the "Financial Derivative Instruments" Seminar on September 21 thru 25 in the Marriott Hotel.

Eng. Olegario Barrelier, Bank Superintendent of Panama, was in charge of inaugurating the activity, saying welcoming words to those present.

The consultants Angel Vilariño and Trillo del Pozo of Vilariño Consultants, recognized for their great experience as International Lecturers in financial subjects, were in charge of training the participants on the development of the Financial Derivative Instrument regulations.

The seminar had the participation of officers of the Banking Supervision Directorate, the Economic Studies Directorate, and from the National Securities Commission.