

IBC maintains soundness and high liquidity and solvency levels

The high liquidity and solvency levels and solid credit risk management determine the soundness, stability and credibility that the Banking Center portrays as of September 30, 2009.

For this term the Banking Center reached $64.1 billion in bank-only based assets, a 0.63% increase when compared to the same term of the previous year. Meanwhile, the assets in group basis (including subsidiaries) reach $77.7 billion, which is a 2.2% growth between years.

The figures show that the non-performing loan portfolio, that is, those assets that have not received payments in over 90 days, is 1.4% of the total loan portfolio, and the provisions for specific risks cover 118.4% of the non-performing portfolio.

Similarly, it can be seen that the system's liquidity is undergoing a rising trend for this term at 69.36%.
