

Officers of the American Senate in the SBP

Democrat and Republican Congressmen advisers of the Senate of the United States of America visited the Superintendency of Banks of Panama (SBP).

Subjects related to the business' development were addressed during the meeting. The visit is part of an exchange agreement between the United States Department of State and the Panamanian State, aiming to reinforce the cooperation between the two countries.

The advisers visit Panama once or twice a year as part of this exchange. Present in the meeting were Michael Beckerman, Brandi Lowell, Neeta Bidwai, Whitney Frost, Benjamin Bell, Michael Hacker, Kathryn J. Spaziani, Steven Moore, Chris DeBosier, Robert Boland.

The delegation was received by Eng. Olegario Barrelier, Bank Superintendent of Panama, together with his technical financial team.
